Abstract

Government of India has launched the 'Digital India programme' on 2nd July 2015, to transform the entire ecosystem of public services through the use of information technology. The vision is to transform India into a digitally empowered society and knowledge economy. The aim is to provide the government services to all the Indian citizens digitally and connects rural people with internet so that people will get the benefits of all the government services by improving their digital literacy. With the help of Digital technology people can manage daily works and share information in far better and effortless way. The prime objectives of this paper are to understand the concept of digital India; to find out the awareness about digital India initiatives among the educated youth of South Goa; to understand gender wise awareness levels and suggest measures to empower youth about the Digital India initiatives. The paper relies on primary data collected vide questionnaire from a total of 112 respondents who are pursuing their post graduate studies from various P.G Centres in South Goa. Secondary data sources have also been relied upon. The Study reveals that majority of the Post Graduate youth are aware about the Digital India initiative but do not know the details and services of Digital India.

Key Words: Digital India, Awareness, Empowers, Knowledge Economy.

ABSTRACT

Industrial development holds the key to the rapid economic development of any nation. Goa is generously gifted by nature with rich natural resources including its rich mineral deposits, excellent tourism infrastructure, an all weather port, air link, good network of transport system, skilled manpower etc. that facilitate bright prospects for the growth of industries. After liberation in 1961 from Portuguese rule, Goa has witnessed negligible industrial growth almost for one decade. Since, 1980-81 the industrial activities in the state slowly picked up due to the efforts of the State Government, the Central Government and various promotional organizations. The process of Liberalization, Privatization and Globalization (LPG) since 1991 has created tremendous opportunities for growth and it has thrown up new challenges to the industrial sector.

Various economic policies of the Government of Goa have set goals for the achievement of substantial growth of the industrial sector. The Government has triggered the necessary industrial environment by improving infrastructural facilities in the state along with financial assistance. This has provided a genuine momentum for the economic development in the state of Goa. The present study attempts to understand the growth pattern of industries in Goa in both the pre and post liberation and liberalization period and examines the current status of industrial development in the State.

Key Words: Industries, Development, Growth, Pre-liberation, Post-liberalization.

In the book I tried intensively to revealed all the basic rights and freedoms to which all humans are entitled.

Examples of rights and freedoms which are often thought of as human rights include civil and political rights, such as the right to life, liberty, property, freedom of expression, pursuit of happiness and equality before the law; and the social, cultural, economic rights, including the right to participate in science and culture, the right to work and education.

All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. They are endowed with reason and conscience and should act towards one another in a spirit of brotherhood.

Introduction

The 2.5 million years of journey of man has been very fascinating. He has passed through many stages such as Homo habilis, Homo erectus, Homo rudolfensis, Homo neidelbergensis, Homo floresiensis and Homo sapiens.

Man spent major part of his life as a nomad moving from one jungle to another jungle. His life was full of hardship as he had no shelter to live and clothes to wear. He lived on trees and caves to protect from harsh weather and animals. Proper food was a major issue as he had no knowledge to grow crops hence, he collected fruits, nuts, roots, flowers, berries from woods and killed animals for food and skin. During this period, human population was very less and the main focus of man was on his security. Hence, no one thought of Human Rights or Civil Rights at that time. The idea of Human Rights gradual began when man entered into the second phase of his journey (nomadic to settled life) and civilizations started flourishing.

"All human beings, whatever their cultural or historical background, suffer when they are intimidated, imprisoned or tortured... We must, therefore, insist on a global consensus, not only on the need to respect human rights worldwide, but also on the definition of these rights... for it is the inherent nature of all human beings to yearn for freedom, equality and dignity, and they have an equal right to achieve that."

CHAPTER 4 HUMAN RIGHTS: KEY ISSUES & CHALLENGES

The idea of Human Rights did not begin with the establishment of United Nations. But Human Rights are deep-rooted in ancient philosophical thoughts under the concepts of 'Natural Laws' and 'Natural Rights. Hammurabi, the Babylonian King proclaimed a set of commandments to his citizens called 'Hammurabi's Codes.' These codes recognized reasonable wages to its people along with protection to property. Likewise, there is a declaration to rights of humans in the Assyrian Laws, the Hittite laws, and the Mosaic Laws. All religions of the world, despite differences in their philosophy, preach and teach humanist perspective in the light of human rights.
