In his presentation Dr. Sachin Tendulkar mentioned that Agriculture gives us continuous sustainable employment for a very long time.

1. He stressed on the fact that working in fields is not demeaning and 15 lakhs population of Goa should be able to cater to the needs of vegetable demand of Goans if we grow fruits and vegetables in Goa instead of buying commodities like vegetables, milk, meat and eggs supplied by neighboring states.

He mentioned that Delphino Mall in Porvorim sells tender coconut and tender jackfruit which are supplied by a person from Devgad (Sawantwadi) that throws an opportunity for students who are future entrepreneurs about exploring this opportunity as coconuts and jackfruits are available in plenty in coastal belts of Goa.
3. In western countries people are demanding vegan food and therefore a Goan student can take an opportunity of entering into entrepreneurship by replacing chicken with jackfruit in sandwiches or burger. Selling jackfruit pulp in containers and pouches, jackfruit seed powder which is called as Jafce can replace coffee, outer cover of jackfruit can be grilled and made into cow food, jamun seed powder and juice is also in huge demand in the market.
4. In his lecture he further informed that agriculture income is a non-taxable income therefore more and more youths can avail loans which are available at a lowest rate maximum upto Rs. 3,00,000 for doing different agricultural activities like poultry, agriculture, aquaculture, dairy farming and honeybee rearing. Government is offering a number of subsidies for dairy farming. Goans

5. Chief Ministers Rozgar Yojana can be availed by young budding entrepreneurs for financial assistance. People from ST background further have special assistance offered by government through other specialized schemes. While concluding he stressed on the natural resources available in coastal belts like fish and local fruits, chillie and vegetable cultivation etc, which younger generation can grab to cater to the needs of tourists as Canacona is a tourist spot.
